

IOSH Managing Safely

CARDINUS RISK MANAGEMENT LIMITED

tel: 020 7469 0200 fax: 0844 338 8589

web: www.cardinus.com email: info@cardinus.com

Background

The course has been devised and is accredited by Institution of Occupational Safety and Health (IOSH) and is suitable for those with management responsibilities.

The aim of the course is to enable candidates to identify the principles and practices required to ensure a safer working environment. As environmental issues are increasing in prominence, a section also looks at the organisations management of environmental responsibilities.

This is a highly interactive course, suitable for managers and supervisors in any sector. It concentrates on the management of health and safety from a practical, systematic and effective viewpoint.

OBJECTIVES

On completion of the 'Managing Safely' programme, participants will be able to:

- Understand the statutory duties of the company, management & employees to ensure the health and safety of all.
- Understand the common law duty of care and the way in which compensation claims can arise.
- Appreciate the role of a health and safety management system and its components.
- Understand the principles of risk assessment and control and to carry out basic assessments.
- Appreciate the major issues concerning occupational health.
- Understand the roles of incident reporting, audits and inspections in monitoring health and safety performance.

TOPICS COVERED

- Introducing health and safety
- Assessing and controlling risks
- Understanding responsibilities
- Identifying hazards
- Accident investigation
- Measuring performance
- Protecting the environment

DURATION

24 hours plus examination and project completion time.

The face to face content can be spread over 4/5 days, either consecutively or as requested by the client.

COST

Please contact Cardinus for a quote.

